

2 Wheeled WANDERlust

Destination: Amsterdam, the Netherlands

By Sheili Elledge

Photo Credits: Ron Elledge

Side Jaunt

The windmills at Kinderdijk are a famous UNESCO World Heritage Site in the Netherlands. Although thousands visit the area every year, it is relatively unknown that each windmill is a private residence where the family works to maintain the water table for the entire farming region.

The brisk ocean breezes off the North Sea can't dampen the spirit of this city. The life and vitality of Amsterdam are evidenced as residents and travelers take to the streets to fulfill daily routines or take on new adventures. This city has much to be proud of... it is modern, yet historic. It is culturally diverse, yet fiercely unique. Boasting history back to the 13th century, historic city centers, famous canals and streets filled with people. Many bicyclists and foot traffic run the roads and cross without looking, be diligent and enjoy the ride!

Eats

Stray from the traditional Dutch meal and treat yourself to the Aneka Rasa Restaurant. A small eatery tucked away in a cozy narrow building not far from Central Station. It offers authentic Indonesian fare that is delicious as it is affordable. Meals are served family style, so you'll want to try a little of everything. Vegetarian friendly.
www.anekarasa.nl

Tid-Bits

"Venice of the North"

See the sights from a different perspective, take a canal cruise! Colorfully painted houseboats, low-arching bridges that in the dimly lit evenings appear as tiny fireflies dancing on the water.

Meals:

Traditional Breakfast "boterhammen" – Slices of bread with butter, slices of cheese or meat, and peanut butter. Lunch is typically the same as breakfast. Dinner is the main warm meal of the day

Trade in the motor

Stretch your legs to see the sights. Amsterdam holds the title of being one of the most bicycle-friendly cities in the world.